"There are more men ennobled by reading than by nature."

CHICAGO

The horribly mangled body of Henry Prusa was recovered February 7th, more than a month after he had slipped through a crevice of the glacier-like ice-formation on the lake front.

Remember your boyhood stories of Chilkoat Pass in the Klondyke gold rush; of the perils of Switzerland glaciers; of polar explorations? Such an adventure was duplicated right here in the world's fourth largest city—and the only victim was a deaf man.

Prusa was aged thirty-three, one of the Ephpheta flock. Friday, January 3d, he was one of a group crawling carefully around on the big ice-cliffs at the Oak Street Beach. In summer this beach slopes, shining sand, straight from Lake Shore Drive's wide concrete pavements, into the warm waters 100 yards from the teeming drive. But with this winter's 16-below-zero weather, huge ice-cliffs were formed, more than 20 feet high, like some glacier ready to break off into ice-bergs at the sea.

Now all ice is treacherous. If you have never been banged against rocks or a wharf by big waves, you will have not the faintest idea of the tremendous impact of the waves beneath the ice. Prusa was one of hundreds posing with friends for photographs on the weird ice-cap. Suddenly there was a tearing sound, terrifying everyone but the deaf man. He alone of the hundreds on that treacherous formation, did not know that persistent pounding of the waves was even at that instant causing a big surface gash. He alone did not look around. He alone did not realize the new-born crevice was slowly cracking right behind his back.

The crowd howled a horrified warning. The friend with focused kodak waved a frantic "come quick." Prusa grinned in genial good nature and waved "go ahead." Inch by inch the crevice widened, inch by inch creeping murderously up to the doomed deaf-mute. It reached his rubber heels as he smiled for the photo. With a sudden puzzled look he felt the world open up as he dropped from sight. Down, down between walls of enormous ice he shot. When his friends reached the crevice and lay down to peer cautiously over, he had disappeared.

Exactly five weeks later someone saw what appeared to be a human body, dimly discerned amid what remained of the big ice-mass. A crew from the central coast guard station plowed through the waves post-haste. After strenuous labors they recovered what was left of the body. Constant pounding of tons of ice had stripped it almost naked. The conflict of Nature, the slashing smashes of wave-buffed tons, had torn off one leg and his head. Identification was possible only because of the initialed belt, which still clung tenaciously to his waist.

They buried what was left of him on the 11th. And in 1935, when you and I disport in the summer sun on the Oak Street Beach, at Chicago's Grand Frat Convention, you will hear them telling the Chilkoat Pass experience of a deaf man back in 1930. But you will scarce believe it.

A number of the members of the Catholic Deaf Club went to view the body of Mr. Prusa, in a coffin at the home of his parents Sunday, February 9th, but his face was covered with a cloth.

"Parson" Purdum of the Pas-a-Pas Club, slipped over a neat one, which promises to be emulated by other organizations all over the country. It consists of a "Parents Night" at the club socials. At first we were scoffers; but after seeing the results, frankly admit it seems our one-best-bet to combat Impure Oralism. It consists merely of the regular "500" and bunco social, with the added attraction of having several interpreters (hearing offspring of deaf parents) who meet the parents of pupils of either the I. S. D. or the local oral schools, and "put a bee in their bonnet" by pointing out how happy everyone seems under the benign influence of the sign-language.

As the ADC puts it: "One fond mother, with tears in her eyes, said she had grave misgivings concerning her boy's future, but that on seeing so many happy deaf folks using the sign-language, she now realizes her son will be happy instead of leading a drab, dreary existence, when he grows up."

February 1st, Jack Seipp gave a birthday party to his favorite landlady and former teacher in Vancouver—Mrs. J. Frederick Meagher. He sent out illustrated invitations, pulled on the proof-press at the shop:—

Party—Birthday—Surprise—Frieda Meagher—13th floor, 3135 Eastwood Avenue. Bring your own gift—500" starts 8:30 sharp; if late, that's your hard-luck. Eats furnished free by Czar Jacques von Seipp, etatin shrdlu; cooked by Pearl D'Ahl; dishes washed by Gawndosewho. R. S. V. P., P. D. Q., C. O. D.

And the only invited shrewd enough to take advantage of the "C. O. D." notation on the invite, was the clever Mrs. Gus Hyman, who accordingly sent her acceptance without any postage stamp.

Just thirty-nine souls attended. Eight tables of 500; non-players like Morton Henry and Nad President Roberts preferring the big pool table in the living room. Prizes went to Washington Barrow, Mrs. Fredo Hyman, Ingal Dahl (these three all above 3000 points) Cora O'Neil and Ida Roberts. Booby prize went to the father of the famous Menken sisters.

Following Pearl Dahl's typical banquet-dinner, the party lasted until well after 2 a.m. The chief game was a sort of "Who's Who," being won by Deafdom's most distinguished citizen, Arthur L. Roberts himself, with Frieda Meagher, Alice Donohue and Rosa Ursin in order. Wee little Art correctly guessed the identities of fourteen of the seventeen guests whose names were artfully concealed in the following sentences:—

- 1 "She bets on Yale." BetY—Betty Plonshinski.
- 2 "Ladies' hair-style." Bobs—Arthur L. Roberts, called "Bobs."
- 3 "The youngest son of Jacob, who rose as your sinner." U'r sin—Benjamin Ursin.
- 4 "Hydraulic implement for lifting loads, and Chicago's favorite pre-war beer." Jack Seipp.
- 5 "A famous German Doctor." Anna Hoch. Also Otto Lorenz.
- 6 "Mother of Charlemagne." Bertha Henry.
- 7 "Booming bells of May." May Bell—Mabel Hyman.
- 8 "The 'Man Higher Up.'" High-man—Fredo Hyman.
- 9 "A little trick." Meagher—Jim Meagher.
- 10 "God of Thunder—A." Thor, and A. Thora Hartung.
- 11 "A lousey louse." Alice—Alice Whitson. Also Alice Donohue.
- 12 "Molly Pea." Pearl—Pearl Dahl. (M. O. P. stands for "Mother of Pearl," which initials South Sea traders rapidly mispronounce "Molly Pea.")
- 13 "Hades n—Hades (or Hell) an—Helen Anderson.
- 14 "A row of prison bars." Bar row—Washington Barrow.
- 15 "Entrance to this house." Door, dore—Gus Dore.
- 16 "The fringe around mother's old-fashioned drawers." Lacy—Lacie Shelton.
- 17 "A red 'F.'" F-red-a—Frieda.

The same evening the charming Ann McGann gave a party in her sumptuous home, attended by two dozen select celebrants. Unlike most local affairs, no cards were trotted out; but nevertheless a thoroughly good time was had, it is reported.

A "Kid" party held at the M. E. Mission, Saturday, February 8th, drew a small number of deaf persons, who indulged in merriment.

The February 1st, "First Final" of the Daily Times (Chicago's new tabloid) on the back page, had a picture of five deaf basketballers in uniform, all making signs at the same time, with the caption: "Let's Talk This Over," say members of the Jipp-Chiao deaf and dumb basketball team, who are looking for traveling games. Left to right: Phillip Franchi, Alex Motyka, Ed Humphrey, M. Dudas, Vitto Val-lone.

Chief Evergreen Tree, remembered as the Heap Big Brave who bashed the bean of ex-President Hank Anderson at Denver's rat convention in 1927, officiated here February 3d, as chief rain-maker of the council fire of the Grand Council of American Indians.

At least one Chicago silent is not worrying over his chances to secure seats at the world series next fall. Jimmie Meagher just received a personal letter from president Bill Veck of the Cubs, thanking him for his suggestion on a publicity scheme to allot tickets to regular patrons next fall, and ending: "Hold this letter, and if we are so fortunate as to be in the world's series of 1930, it will entitle you to a first shot at our tickets—this whether your plan is adopted or not."

From Portland, Ore., comes news that our Lydia McNeil, now Mrs. John Wondrack, became mother of a six-and-a-half-pound girl named Sue, January 16th.

The parents of Otto Lorenz took little Betty with them for several weeks in Florida.

Falkner, of Cedar Rapids, Ia., spent several days visiting the LeRoy Davis family; he and Mrs. Davis having been schoolmates in Mississippi.

Mrs. John Purdum is visiting in St. Louis, while John takes a course in operating the Ludlow at the local school. As a side-line Johnny conducts a column in the American Deaf Citizen, when he is not busy managing the Pas-a-Pas Club.

The Rev. Mrs. Constance H. Elmes and baby were taken home from a hospital last Saturday. Her husband is a promising young attorney.

The Chicago headquarters of the Frats, No. 1, received word of the death of their member, Frank Hemmender, who died in Dubuque, Ia., January 17th. His mother came to Chicago about twelve years ago, to take care of her married daughter, who was in ill health. She sent for her son, Frank, and his son to move there. He secured a job, but a few years later, they moved back to Dubuque, after the death of the daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gray entertained a number of invited friends at a party at their lovely home Sunday evening, February 9th, in honor of G. Erickson's natal day. The evening was pleasantly passed in games and social conversation.

It is reported in the Chicago Evening Post that Frank Dudley, son of deaf parents, received a prize of $200 for a landscape painting in oil at the sixth annual Hoosier Salon Exhibit in Marshall Field Galleries in Chicago. Delavan, Wis., is proud of the artist, as he is its native.

The Chicago Council, No. 1 of C. K. L. D., held a monthly meeting at the Catholic deaf club house Sunday, February 9th, with the usual attendance at 4 p.m.

Rev. Daniel Higgins will give a one-week mission at the Catholic deaf club house March 2d to 9th. All are welcome to attend and listen to an interesting sermon every evening.

February 3d, Mrs. Walter Whitson laid plates for nineteen of the Ladies' Aid Society at Mrs. Meagher's home, in honor of the latter's birthday. She received several nice gifts.

February 5th, the Aid met at the home of Mrs. Ingal Dahl, where following a fine luncheon Mrs. William Borinstein succeeded Mrs. Alphonse Walter as president. After the meeting a shower was given for Mrs. Edwin Stafford.

Albert, son of the Edward Carlsons, recently graduated from Roosevelt High.

Several social affairs occurred on the 8th, including a card party by Chil-ard-106 at the Capitol building, attended by some 150 folks; a "kid party" at the M. E.; and a private party at the Matt Schuettlers.

Young Virginia Warren, only daughter of the Warrens who came here from Texas a few years ago, is reported dying of quick consumption in a local hospital.

Mr. Thomas Ritchie is improving after an illness of several weeks.

Miss Rena Gephart, the charming young Minnesota Swede, who jumped our town last summer for Portland, Ore., is now reported in Los Angeles. Next thing you know she will "grass-hopper it" (use signs, please) for either Nome or Bombay.

Fred Mahan, the pug, who left town after losing to world champion welter-weight "Jackie Fields" in Kansas City a few months ago, is now in California, knocking them out in an attempt to again command a bout with the champion.

Illinois' prize beauty, Miss Dorothy Haberer, of Springfield, was married in Rockford by the Rev Hasenstab, January 18th, to Rudolph W. Tillman, of Highland Park. Several local bachelors feel "all broken up" about it.

Mrs. Hal Keesal entertained four tables of ladies, Saturday afternoon, the 8th.

Mrs. Hattie Odom, who contributes news to the writer for the DEAF-MUTES' JOURNAL, is confined at a hospital with one side of her face swollen.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dolan, inmates of the Home for Aged Deaf, returned from a pleasant trip to Peoria, Ill., Sunday, February 9th.

The Ephpheta School for the Catholic Deaf and School for the Oral Deaf were closed, in memory of Abraham Lincoln's birthday, Wednesday, February 12th.

TORONTO TIDINGS

Taking the rosy path that led him to this city, Jess Batstone sauntered forth on January 31st, and came to visit friends here, returning to Hamilton on February 2d.

Mr. Arthur H. Jaffray explained in a very forceful and interesting sermon at our church on February 2d, why the "Bread from Heaven" is and ever will be our sustaining substance through all eternity, but those who decline to partake of its inviting flavor, will receive their reward in a different and agonizing way. Mrs. F. E. Doyle gave the usual appropriate hymn.

Messrs. J. R. Byrne and Colin McLean are billed to give lectures at the Briden Literary Society meeting on March 15th.

Our Women's Association put over another very enjoyable social in our gym, on February 1st, that was both unique as well as interesting. Every one who came was invited to contribute the same amount as corresponded to his or her age. On this score many predicted the younger element would turnout in greater force, as luck favored them in the way of admission, but our "wiseheads" must have went to sea in the way of calculation, for "age" outnumbered "youth." Games of all kinds were carried out with a vim and hearty refreshments were served. Nearly twenty dollars was made.

Miss Annabel Thomson was visiting friends in Acton, over the week-end of February 1st, and the happy smiles she wears bespeaks a good time.

Mrs. Lewis Mason and her young son, Herbert, of Merchant Grove, Sask., arrived in this city, on February 1st, to visit her father-in-law, Mr. A. W. Mason, and other relatives here. Prior to their sailing, on February 10th, for a lengthy visit to her parental home in merry old England, where they may remain until next June. She has not seen her home folks since the cessation of the World War, when she came the bride of Mr. Lewis Mason, then in the Canadian Expeditionary force, and returned to Canada. They soon took up a homestead in Merchant Grove, Sask., where they have prospered ever since. This will be Herbert's first glimpse of the Old Sod. We wish for them a pleasant sojourn beyond the herring pond.

Despite a cold night and driving wind that made conditions anything but pleasant, a very good-sized crowd turnout to our Epworth League on February 5th, when Mr. P. Cowling, a young student of the ministry, gave a very touching and appealing address on the subject, "Yielding unto God."

It was one of the most pointed addresses yet given before our League. He strongly stressed us all to hearken unto the Great all that was beckoning us and said there was no better pleasure than serving our only Master, who will reward us all by the way we serve him. Mr. Cowling, who is preparing to go and serve Him in distant Africa, gladly, on request, consented to speak again at a later date.

Mrs. W. H. Muckie, an aunt of Miss Lizzie Muckie and of the late Mrs. Grace Muckie Harris, died rather suddenly on February 7th, in her seventy-ninth year. She was a kind and venerable old lady and known to many of the deaf.

On December 3d last, Mr. W. J. Ross underwent treatment for a varicose vein in his right leg, and was supposed to be healing nicely. He was working as usual when, on February 7th, he felt a deep pain in the affected part, and at once went to his doctor, who sent him to St. Michael's Hospital.

On February 3d, about twenty members of our Young People's Society got together and went for a long sleigh-ride through the open spaces northwest of the city towards Mount Dennis. For the time being there couldn't be a more happy bunch of souls than were they, as they went merrily gliding on with pale Luna looking down on them approvingly, and keeping time to these rhymes:—

On we go in spirits high
Over the mantling snow
Throwing all our cares asunder.
On, on we go.

Over the rolling skykist hills
Through the valley low,
Jolly lads and smiling lassies
Here we go.

After the three hours long ride they foregathered at their headquarters where, among other doings, voted their leader, Mr. J. T. Shilton, a "jolly good fellow," whereupon "Daddy" Shilton retaliated by filling their inner man with refreshing eats.

The cold and unpleasant weather could not dampen the ardor of the happy bunch that gathered at the home of Mr. Samuel Pugsley on February 7th, in response to invitations extended by Sam to celebrate his sister's, Miss Susie Pugsley's natal day, and a very enjoyable time had they all in various ways, winding-up with plenty of eats and ice-cream. Miss Pugsley received many nice gifts.

The writer and a few friends spent the evening of February 2d at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Reeves, and had a very pleasant reception by this genial couple, who were in jovial spirits, but were laboring under a heavy mantle of anxiety, due to severe illness among their brothers and sisters on either side, but latest reports are very encouraging. By the way, friend George is as busy as ever in his own printing office to the rear of their beautiful home.

Many little gifts were lavishly showered upon young Alexander Buchan, the only son of Mr. and Mrs. John Buchan, on February 1st, the occasion being the first year of his existence in this life. To mark the event his proud parents had extended invitations to a number of friends to come and enjoy the little birthday party, and a lovely time was reeled off with many games on the programme. Miss Erna Sole and Mr. James Tate were the lucky winners on either side. Tasty refreshments were served at the close.

The senior choir that will render beautiful hymns at our coming Bible conference has been formed under the leadership of Mrs. Henry Whealy, and consists of Mesdames Whealy, Grooms, Roberts and Watt. The intermediate and junior choirs are, at time of writing, in the making. The juniors are under the tutelage of Mrs. F. E. Harris. Mr. John Fisher, of London, will be one of the speakers from outside points, others wishing to give addresses or hymns should notify H. W. Roberts at once.

WATERLOO WEE WITS

The many friends of Mrs. Ida Cherry Robertson, of Preston, will regret to learn that she has been confined to her bed since the first of the year, and is suffering from tumoric trouble. All efforts are being made to relieve her of this ailment.

Miss Kate Fenner is still in the Kitchener-Waterloo General Hospital, where she has been a patient for the past four months.

Mrs. William Hagen is about the same at the Freeport Sanatorium. While at home, at Christmas time, she took cold, but is again back in her usual condition.

Mrs. James Braven, of Hamilton, who was in Brantford for two weeks at the time of her husband's death on January 14th, is visiting Mrs. J. A. Moynihan here, at time of writing. These two ladies have been loyally entertained by the deaf locally.

We are pleased to say that Mr. and Mrs. John Forsythe, of Elmira, are improving nicely and the former has resumed his work again.

Mrs. J. A. Moynihan had an X-ray examination of her finger which was injured lately, and which showed a fracture of the bone and the ligaments torn. On her leaving she called on Mrs. Thomas S. Williams, and found her improving nicely at St. Mary's Hospital.

After a long lay-off, Mr. Charles Golds, Sr., is again back at his post of employment, a sign that work for the unemployed is on the way.

Mr. Asa Forrester, of Toronto, gave a fine sermon at our service in Kitchener on January 26th. Owing to much illness among our friends, the attendance was below the usual standard. Mr. and Mrs. Isaiah Nahrgang, of Speedville, braved the bitter cold and came in to this meeting.

The Kitchener and Galt hockey teams met in a friendly combat for supremacy on January 31st, on our local ice a battle royal. Lewis Patterson shone brilliantly on the Galt lineup, but George Herons was considered too small for such fast company by the Kitchener manager, so did not play. The score was 6 to 4, in favor of Kitchener.

Mr. and Mrs. John Forsythe, of Elmira, were lately favored by a visit from a hearing brother of Mr. Andrew Switzer, of Glen Allen. This gentleman can converse in our language with ease.

On January 31st, Mrs. J. A. Moynihan and her guest, Mrs. James Braven, of Hamilton, went out on a visit to the Forsythe family in Elmira. As it had been snowing all day, they almost got snowed in, but gamely tugged on, though up to their knees. Yet it was very exuberating and enjoyable as far as the fresh open air was concerned. They returned home on February 3d, well pleased with their visit.

Mr. Carl Rodunske, who is well known among the deaf around here, though not deaf, and a personal friend of Miss Beverly Moynihan, has left here and gone to Bulova, in South America, having received a contract to work in a mining office for the next three years. He will be much missed, but we wish him every success in his chosen field of activity.

LONG BRANCH LOCALS

At a concert held by the local Girl Guides recently, Mrs. George J. Timpson won a beautiful prize as second best in the euchre contest. She is always in luck at every party she attends.

Mr. Ernest Hackbush, of Toronto, was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. George Elliott on February 2d, and his witty humor made the fleeting moments pass off very pleasantly.

Mr. and Mrs. George J. Timpson attended a brilliant dance and buffet luncheon at Old Knox College, on Spadina Avenue, in Toronto, on February 8th, which was given by the Canadian Army Medical Corps, and had a great time.

Mrs. Charles McLaren and her only daughter, Mrs. George J. Timpson were guests of Mrs. Sidney Love, of Kitchener Avenue, on January 28th, and had a nice time.

Mr. Herbert W. Roberts, of Toronto, and Mr. Ernest Stirk, of Mimico, were visitors at the Timpson home, on February 7th, enjoying a pleasant time.

While extending himself at his work lately, Mr. George J. Timpson had the misfortune to fracture a rib, and as a result, was obliged to take a week's enforced rest. We are glad to say he is back at the usual grind, seemingly as well as ever.

It is now sixty-three years since, Mr. Charles McLaren left the old Hamilton school, and though over fourscore now he is going strong yet. At first he became a tailor, but gave it up for the vocation of carpentering.

BORDER BREEZES

Mrs. William Riberdy, of Detroit, spent January 28th, very pleasantly, with the Braithwaite family in Windsor.

The Ford plant is not taking on any new hands at present, as many might surmise, and those who take a chance and come will meet with shattered hopes.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Braithwaite, of Windsor; Mr. Charles A. Ryan, of Amherstburg, and Mr. and Mrs. William Riberdy, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gottlieb, in Detroit, on January 31st, and had a lovely time.

Mr. Mack White, of Detroit, went out to see his mother and sister in Strathroy, for his recent holidays, and had a grand old time.

The other day a deaf impostor was making his rounds among the innocent people here, but ran into a snag and almost a trap, when he appeared at a house occupied by a deaf lady. Finding himself likely to be cornered, he decamped with more haste than grace and dignity and has not been seen since.

Owing to a financial tie-up, Mr. John Berry, of Royal Oak, has been enjoying a holiday, but friend John is not worrying, for he can see in the purple distance signs of prosperity coming on the wing.

Judging by the talk that is on the tapis now, a large number of the deaf of this city vicinity, will be flocking Buffaloward early in August. No doubt, Bisontown will be a mecca of the deaf at that time.

Mr. Albert Siess, Mrs. F. Hardenberg, Miss Eva Hardenberg, Mr. H. Laner and Mr. F. Moreland, all of Pontiac, were recently the guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Riberdy, in Detroit, with whom they had a fine time.

Mrs. William Sloan returned to her home in Fostoria, O., on February 2d, after several days' very pleasant sojourn with the Riberdys. While here, she made many friends by her pleasing ways.

Mr. Henry Gottlieb, of Detroit, who has not been very well for some time past, has recuperated sufficiently as to be able to return to his work again, much to the rejoicing of his many friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ball and Mr. and Mrs. Cas. Sadows, of Detroit, and Charles A. Ryan, of Amherstburg, enjoyed a very pleasant time on February 1st, with the Braithwaites in Windsor.

GENERAL GLEANINGS

Just before Christmas, Mr. and Mrs. James P. Orr, of Hamilton, went out to Shakespeare, to attend a big family reunion at the home of an uncle, John Barlett, where over thirty-five relatives gathered around the festive board, down to Breslau, to the alter's parental home, where Mr. Orr put in two weeks, while his helpmate remained for a full month, having just returned to Milverton, on January 31st. They had a grand time all around.

Mr. Thomas Hazelton, the so-called wandering cobbler, whose permanent abode is always in the air, was, at time of writing, going about the country peddling needles in the Kawartha Lake district. We think it far better and safer for him to settle down and stick to his original occupation as shoemaker, rather than go about the country in his usual troublesome, and at times, threatening way. If he keeps up the nuisance he is maintaining, as reports reach us, we fear he will run foul of the law. A man of such physique strength and intelligence as he is should be pursuing a more respectable vocation than tramping around the country, threatening those who do not assist him and at the same time throwing an ignominious blot on the good name of the deaf. We have warned him, time and again without any results, apparently, so it is time more stringent action should be taken, for the sake of his poor wife and kiddies.

The Bobcaygeon hockey team has two sons of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley B. Wright on its roster. Lorne is the coach of the boys, while his younger brother, Jack, is one of the team's best players and mainstays. In a recent league game Jack got a cut that required two clamps, yet he stuck to his guns and went through the grinding melee. When the game was over, Jack was given a beautiful tie for coming through with a clean sheet and unpenalized. Since their boys have been on this team, the proud parents have become dyed-in-the-wool rail-birds and hardly miss a game. No doubt their presence at the games encourages their boys to play with greater impetus.

Mr. Nelson Wood, of Santa Barbara, Cal., writes from Phoenix, Arizona, that he is now enjoying a trip through that and neighboring states, amid the awe-inspiring canyons and abysses.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Preston, of Peterborough, were guests of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley B. Wright, in Bobcaygeon, for several days, during the first of February. The Wrights are a very congenial family.

The annual picnic of the Toronto Evangelical Church of the Deaf, will be held this year to Queenstown Heights, on July 19th next. Everybody is welcome.

There was a good service for our friends in Aurora, on February 9th, conducted by Mr. H. E. Grooms, of Toronto.

G. W. Gee, of Cupar, Sask., has been very sick for a couple of weeks, but has been improving and is able to be around again now.

George Washington

On February 22d, the people of the United States will celebrate the 198th anniversary of the birth of George Washington.

He was the father of his country, inasmuch as the independence of the thirteen colonies was mainly due to his great achievements in the battle for freedom.

He was deprived of his father by death, when only twelve years of age. At the age of thirteen he wrote many maxims of civility and good behaviour to guide his own conduct.

When the War of Independence broke out at Lexington, he offered his services, and was elected Commander-in-Chief of the Revolutionary forces and for eight years, amid hardships and suffering, directed the unequal strife until a final victory was won. For his services he refused all pay.

He became the first President of the American Republic, was elected for a second term, but refused to accept a third term.

He died on the 14th of December, 1799, at the age of sixty-seven years.

WHAT will be considered a notable achievement by a deaf architect, is the new million-dollar hotel of Nashville, Tenn. The architect was Thomas S. Marr, and the Nashville Banner devotes a full page to a description of the wonderful planning, equipment, decorations, etc. It is called the Noel Hotel, and is said to be the biggest and finest in that section of the country. Mr. Marr, like Cadwallader Washburn, did not allow distinguished lineage and a plethora pocketbook to militate against a successful career. He is industrious in effort, remarkable in achievement, gentlemanly in demeanor, and generous towards a good cause—as witness his donation of $500 to the Edward Miner Gallaudet Memorial Fund. Continued power to Thomas S. Marr.

AN International Congress of Deaf-Mutes will be held in Liege, Belgium, from the 15th to the 17th of August, 1930. An elaborate program will be carried out, with the august patronage of the King of Belgium, under the auspices of the "Societe de Secours Mutuels des Sourds-Muets." The president of this society is Antoine Dresse, and the secretary Maxim Sincic.

AN International Congress of Deaf-Mutes is advertised to meet in Algiers, North Africa, from the 14th to the 21st of June, 1930. A fine reception will be accorded to all who may attend, including a trip to Roman ruins near the edge of the Sahara Desert. Joseph Rodet will be president, whose address is No. 1 Marechal-Bosquet Street. Francois Bordon, the secretary, will interpret the French language, (which will be used in the Congress,) into German, Dutch, and English.

Wilksburg, Pa.

The Stunt social at the Wilksburg Club rooms, conducted by Mr. Joseph Stevenson, of Bellevue, was a pleasing success although there were fewer patrons present than was expected. There was no diminution of fun, however, and about everybody present took part in the various stunts that Mr. Stevenson presented. These consisted of "walking a string" stretched on the floor, "feather blow," guessing Mr. Stevenson's weight, "bowling-ten pins with a rubber, guessing the number of beans in a glass jar, picking up tacks with a magnet, etc. The winners by points in the various stunts were: first, Miss Doris Myers; second, Mr. Krotzer; and third, Miss Peggy Blackhall. There were just thirty contestants and all failed in the candle lighting stunt. This consisted of balancing oneself on a water bottle, with feet heel-on-toe and lighting a candle with a match. This stunt produced the most fun, though no one succeeded in lighting the candle.

Miss Ida Kennedy, of Prospect, Butler Co, having through her relatives, applied for admittance to the Torresdale Home, G. M. Tee-garden was delegated to inquire into her fitness for same. After two or three appointments and failures to get up there, Mr. J. L. Friend put himself and car at his service and drove him, with Mrs. Friend, up February 2d, ground hog day, which apparently brought good luck to the travellers, for they reached their destination in good time and net Miss Kennedy and her relatives. The investigation seemed to be in her favor. Miss Kennedy left the Edgewood School away back in the eighties and has lived a rather lonely life in the country, very seldom meeting any deaf people. As we passed through Butler we expected to pick up Robert Henderson, but after driving half an hour about the itv. we failed to locate him, much to our regret. Butler has grown in size a great deal, since we old timers rode our bicycles up there. We noted that the autos have much better roads than the bicyclers had some thirty years ago. In making his trip we drove about 130 miles, but luckily the weather was propitious and on the return the snow and ice had disappeared from the roads.

A card social in favor of the Torresdale Home was pulled off by the P. S. A. D. branch at St. Peter's parish house, February 8th, and was a successful affair, although fewer came than expected. The proceedings opened with a valentine action, after which, "500" and "Bunco" were in evidence the remainder of the evening. The winners in the games were:—

500—Men: William Shuback, first; Wesley Stevenson, second. Each received a comb. Women: Mrs. George Blackhall, first; Mrs. F. A. Leitner, second. Each received a handkerchief.

Bunco—Men: William Grimes, first; D. Kramer, second. Women: Mrs. Joe Saunders, first; Miss K. Warner, second. Each received a handkerchief.

After the games refreshments were sold, so that the Home was benefited by a tidy sum. Thomas Sarver and his family are still sojourning in Pennville, Westmoreland County, and enjoying country life, it seems. A while ago he told how he and some of his relatives came out uninjured in an automobile accident recently. They were driving from Pennville to Mt. Pleasant, the roads were rather slippery, and on rounding a curve, the car skidded on the ice, and after careening about, upset in the gutter. Fortunately, no one was injured, and rightening the car when help came, proceeded on their way, rejoicing. There were four of them in the car, so it was extremely lucky that no one was hurt.

Mr. Sarver visited with John Smith in Mt. Pleasant some time ago, and was entertained royally, as only J. S. knows how.

Miss Doris Myers, of the Edgewood school staff, and Miss Irene Schifino, assistant supervisor of girls at the same place, made a flying trip to Philadelphia, on Saturday, February 8th, returning in time for school duties Monday, the tenth. In Philadelphia, the ladies were conducted and entertained by Miss Sassman, and Mr. McIlvaine did his share along that line, too. They visited the Mt. Airy schools, the Torresdale Home, All Souls' Church and Rev. Mr. Kaercher's place of worship, so it may be seen they were on the go early and late, and we opine they were dead tired at the end of their regular work day at the school. They enjoyed the trip, however, in spite of all the rushing and sleepless hours.

The Wilksburg Silent Club has acquired two more first-class billiard tables, which have been set up in their rooms. The tables and their equipment are in much better condition than the old table they had. This will be disposed of first chance they get, thus leaving two. As these tables were obtained at an auction sale, they expect they will pay for themselves in a very short time. Silva Florida, of Washington, Pa., a recent student at the Edgewood school, was caught in a coasting accident in his home town, and so seriously injured that he died a day later. He was on a large bobbed sled with friends, when it turned and upset against the curb. This does the sport of coasting claim her victims, same as the auto and the flying planes.

The Pittsburgh chapter of the G. C. A. A. had a meeting January 30th, at the Edgewood school. As the Secretary-Treasurer, Mr. Painter was absent, and only ten members present, not much business was transacted. It was decided, however, to close the drive for the Memorial fund, as the time for that was almost up.

Then it was decided to have a Gallaudet dinner in March, whereupon Mr. Manning invited the Chapter to have their banquet at the school, and March 25th was decided on as the date. When that was done, Mrs. Manning revealed that was Mr. Manning's natal day, a happy coincidence. Mr. Manning, however, insisted that should not be taken into consideration in any form. Those present were glad to know the birthday date anyway.

After adjournment Mrs. Manning took affairs in hand and with the assistance of Miss Dawes and Miss Trit, treated those present to a light lunch, consisting of ice-cream, cake and coffee—and plenty of it all. Their courtesy was highly appreciated by all present.

Thus do all those in authority at the school take an interest in the affairs of the deaf—in school and out. They can be assured, too, that their courtesies are always appreciated.

LUTHERAN GUILD

Last Saturday, February 15th, in the Immanuel Lutheran Church, the Lutheran Guild had a St. Valentine-Movies Social. There were nearly two hundred people present. The valentine games were given, before all went upstairs to see Rin Tin Tin in "Where the North Begins"; Harold Lloyd's comedy in "Safety Last" and Pathe News about Graf Zeppelin's journey from Lakehurst, N. J., to Lakehurst, N. J. The winners of prizes for the games were: Heart Jocko, Gladys Weisenstein and Mr. Oberbeck; Heart Cutting, Mrs. Crisenberg; Heart Finger Race, Miss T. Newman, L. Auerbach; Heart Race, Miss T. Newman; Heart Lucky Number, Mrs. J. Heil, A. Cohen. Refreshments were served before all went home. Mr. Howard Thompson was introduced to the people. He is a moving-picture operator, and was a former professor in the school for the deaf in Trenton, N. J.

Last December the Lutheran Guild held a meeting and voted for new officers of 1930:— President, J. Breden; Vice-President, Mrs. L. Brooks; Secretary, C. A. Peterson; Treasurer, K. Christgau; Due Collector, O. Rehling. Mr. L. Scholze, a member of the Lutheran Church, announces that his wife, nee Mary Cook, gave birth to a girl baby.

On January 25th, Mr. Frank Prims and Miss Caroline Sandalea were married in his parents' home, by Rev. Mr. Boll. The wedding guests present were Mr. and Mrs. Weisenstein, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Peterson, Misses Ida Ruge, Lizzie Sandalea, Pauline Nowak, Annie Chigas, Sarah Brodsky, Teresa Viero and Mr. Victor Lind.

Mr. Abraham Yager, or Abe, as he is familiarly known among the sporting fraternity is at this writing very sick, and his son, Harold, told the writer that his legion of friends are remembering him with gifts, especially with the latest publications. Harold further stated that the billiard cue presented to his father by Willie Hoppe, was not thirty years ago as stated, but fourteen years ago, on the thirtieth anniversary of Mr. Abe Yager's career as a sporting editor. By the way, Harold now only lacks a few months of becoming a journeyman printer, then he will become a full-fledged member of New York "Big 6."

Unlike many another deaf boy after graduating, Harold Yager, instead of attempting to try to secure a position at commanding wages, by the advice of his father, began as an apprentice in the Brooklyn Eagle, thus in a few months his fifth year will have been up. He is a graduate of the Fanwood School, and while a pupil, was one of the leading athletes, and has left a remarkable record.

In the New York Typographical Union No. 6, there many deaf members, and just now here are several very important matters being adjusted.

At the meeting this month there were several deaf members present. But, being deaf they were unable to learn what was being said. Mr. E. P. Clarke, an ex-teacher of the deaf, who is a proofreader in the New York World, was at the meeting, so one of the members sent a note to President Leon H. Rouse, that they (the deaf printers) would appreciate it if he could get Mr. P. E. Clarke to interpret the proceedings for them. Mr. Clarke willingly interpreted the proceedings for the benefit of the deaf members from the platform.

At the next meeting, in March, Mr. Clarke will again perform for them, and over fifty deaf printers of No. 6 will attend and be able to know what is being done.

Mr. William L. Mr. Louis Libson and Miss Sadie Levin were married on Tuesday, February 11th, at the Embassy Mansion, 20-22 West 115th Street, Manhattan, New York City. A wedding reception and luncheon followed. Mr. H. Fass, the caterer of the Embassy Mansion, Inc., prepared an elaborate feast, which would have given ample taste to royalty. Besides the immediate friends and relatives of the couple, there were present several deaf friends.

The League of Elect Surds will have its Annual Dinner at the Lafayette, 9th Street and University Place, on Friday evening, February 21st.

Mr. and Mrs. Monæsser, on the 29th of December, while out in their car met with an accident—which was unavoidable. Though the car was only going at a moderate speed, it struck something, and overturned, but fortunately the couple were not badly hurt. Mr. Monæsser generally comes to the club from his Long Island home in his car, but for the last two visits he made it by train, and one of his fingers is bandaged. This is how we learned about it. Though they escaped injury when the accident happened, the car was badly damaged, and had to be towed to a repair shop, and the price, ah! was almost half what it would cost for a new car.

Aside from the special feature—the unveiling of the De L'Epée statue—a series of papers and addresses on timely topics is being arranged. An invitation is extended to those of the deaf who have any message of importance to contribute. Please communicate with the undersigned before March 15th, stating the subject to be covered. SYRACUSE, N. Y.

Mrs. Robert Conley and son, John, are spending two weeks in New York City with relatives. In the meantime "Rob's" own skill in the culinary art seems to agree with him remarkably well.

Mrs. Frank O. Lee is convalescing in a Syracuse hospital from an operation for appendicitis. Her many friends wish her a speedy recovery.

On February 12th the deaf contingent of Syracuse gave a party in honor of Mrs. Julia Drake, who will soon reach the eighty-fifth milestone of life's journey. Mrs. Drake bears her years well and looks twenty years younger and is full of life and vivacity. Her husband was a hearing man, by profession a doctor, back in the eighties when the family resided at Oswego, N. Y. He died about thirty years ago and Mrs. Drake has since made her home with a daughter in Syracuse. She also has a son living in the city. She receives a pension from the government.

Rev. Robert Root of the Richmond Ave. M. E. Church at Buffalo, visited with his parents in Syracuse for a few days, returning to Buffalo February 15th.

Mrs. Herbert C. Merrill was hostess to the Ladies' Guild, at a card party on February 14th.

A number of deaf from Syracuse motored to Utica on February 15th, to attend a party given by the Frat Division in that city. On February 22d many of the deaf of Utica will return the courtesy by attending the masquerade ball given by the Syracuse Division at Larned Hall, corner Warren and Washington Streets. Thomas Hinchey is engineering the affair and a big crowd as well as a big time is expected.

PHILADELPHIA

Suddenly, on the morning of February 15, 1930, William Lewis Salter received the final summons of his Master.

On the morning of that day, although complaining of pains in the chest, Mr. Salter insisted on going to the tax office to pay the 1930 tax on his property and when he returned home his condition became more grave. A doctor was sent for, but when he arrived shortly after one o'clock, Mr. Salter was beyond help, having already died in agony from heart failure. The end, coming so suddenly and unexpectedly, cast a pall of gloom over the deaf community which was the more felt by those who had come into contact with the deceased during his life-time and admired him for his excellent qualities of heart and mind.

William L. Salter was born at Sandy Ridge, New Jersey, on November 18th, 1863. He became deaf at two years age from a cold gathering in the head. When of school age, the State of New Jersey not having a school for the deaf, he was sent to the Fanwood School in New York City, from which he graduated. His early habits of industry were excellent and he worked as a mechanic in Trenton, N. J., for a number of years. About forty-eight years ago, he came to Philadelphia to take the position of a machine-operator on tools in the extensive Disston Works at Tacony, whose saws and tools have gained a nation-wide reputation. So successful was he in the operation of this particular machine that he continued at it until the time of his death. At times, however, it affected his heart, causing spells of illness. Since the late world war he was not working as steadily at before and to this, perhaps, in due fact that his heart did not give out entirely before.

Mr. Salter was twice married. His first wife was a Miss Carrie Goddard, who did not live long. On June 4th, 1919, he began his second matrimonial venture by taking Miss Gertrude Parker, of Leipsic, Delaware, as his wife, and this union proved a very happy one, though lasting but little over a decade. Of the immediate kin, his widow and an older brother are the sole survivors.

Mr. Salter's standing in the deaf community of Philadelphia was excellent and highly exemplary. And we have reason to believe that his standing at the Disston Works was equally commendable. And no sorrow is more keen than that we feel for the widow who has lost such a model husband and her chief mainstay. May God bless her!

Mr. Salter was a member of All Souls' (Protestant Episcopal) Church for the Deaf, serving on the vestry for several years, and took a personal interest in its affairs, and he was a member of the Pennsylvania Society for the Advancement of the Deaf which maintains the Home for the Aged and Infirm Deaf at Torresdale.

The funeral took place from his late home, to 4713 Howell Street, Wissinoming, on Wednesday, February 19th, and the interment will be beside his first wife in Magnolia Cemetery. May his spirit rest in peace.

Mr. Samuel F. Pennell, brother of our Charles M., died in Moylan, Pa., of heart attack on February 7th, and was buried in the Quaker Burying Ground at Middletown. He was for many years an efficient and faithful, employee of the Hajo Corporation of the city.

Charles H. Williams, of Wilmington, Del., was a recent visitor at All Souls' Church.

A chicken supper was served in All Souls' Parish House on Saturday evening, February 15th, under the management of Mrs. Nancy Moore. It was very successful. A movie show followed the dinner.

Delays of the Law

"I understand that you called on the plaintiff. Is that so?"
"Yes," replied the witness.
"What did he say?"

The attorney for the defense jumped to his feet and objected that the conversation could not be admitted in evidence. A half hour's argument followed, and the judges retired to their private room to consider the point.

An hour later they filed into the court room and announced that the question might be put.

"Well, what did the plaintiff say?"
"He weren't at home, sir," came the answer.—Housekeeper

Although this long-looked-forward-to game ended in defeat for us, we feel that it was one of the best games of the season.

On Friday, February 14th, the Literary Society held a meeting in Chapel Hall, giving the following program:—

Declamation—"Yankee Doodle"—Einer Rosenkjar, '31, accompanied by George Lynch, '33, on the drum.

After the meeting was adjourned, a number of the students left to witness a basketball game played at the Kendall School by the school's aspiring young stars. At nine o'clock they returned to the Young Men's Refectory, where an informal dance was held until ten-thirty.

While all this was going on, our basketball team was stepping lively on the court of Shepherd College in West Virginia. This game also resulted in defeat for us and makes us wonder when our luck takes another turn. The line-up:

Resuming athletic relations with George Washington University after a two-year lapse, Gallaudet's Co-ed basketballers journeyed over to the G. W. U. gymnasium and held their opponent's superior, more experienced team, to a 29-21 count on Saturday night.

Our girls had the ball in their possession most of the time and out-fought their opponents from start to finish. Our inability to get the ball in on numerous tries for the goal, and the fact that the officials were a little too pronounced in calling fouls on our team during the last half, cost us the game.

The end of the first half saw the Kendall Greens trailing behind

Good talks were given by Miss Zell, Mr. Greener, Mr. Zorn, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Moore, Mr. Jacobson and others.

William Stupfer gave a birthday

BUFFALO

February 2d will linger long in the memory of the hundred or so who attended the informal reception tendered Mr. Samuel Frankenheim, of New York, Chairman of the De l'Epee committee, at Hotel Buffalo, who made a visit to here a few days previous on matters in connection with the statue. While here he was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Sol D. Weil, who on January 31st held a delightful "at home" in his honor, one that was thoroughly enjoyed by those present.

As scheduled, Mr. Frankenheim gave a lecture, touching on the statue matters, giving a most graphic account of his visit to Paris in this connection, dwelling at some length on how, through sheer originality in its conception, the model submitted by Mr. Hanan, captured the award over the celebrated deaf sculptors of France, who, however, proved their true sportsmanship by praising the selection of Hanan, and admitting his conception was both original and in fine grace, depicting the good abbe as gazing thoughtfully at his folding arm, the hand of which is forming the letter A of the alphabet. Throughout, Mr. Frankenheim explains, the main idea was to direct thought to the man himself. While in Paris Mr. Frankenheim visited the school for the deaf which Abbe de l'Epee founded and also visited St. Roch Church, where De l'Epee is buried.

Reminiscing, Mr. Frankenheim told how, back in 1912, at one of the N. A. D. conventions, it was Father McCarthy, of New York, who proposed that the deaf raise a statue to De l'Epee, which was wasted upon, and the consummation of which is so near realization after these many years, the gift of the American deaf to the man who invented their alphabet, which down to this time has not changed one whit.

Then followed the buffet lunch:

Dill Pickles
Smoked Liver Sausage
Green Onions
Sandwiches on Rye
Meat Cheese
Roquefort and Cream Cheese
Cold Roast Shoulder of Lamb
Peanut Butter Sandwiches
Cold Bologna Sausage
Potato Salad
Bread and Butter Sandwiches
Coffee

After the inner man was satisfied, Mr. Frankenheim was again called on for another speech, this time giving a most interesting account of his experience in Europe and South America, relating a near-tragic comedy occurring in Mexico; relating how one afternoon he wandered into a race track wondering at so few spectators being present and of having misgivings as to races to be run, but in good time they were run, yet the crowd did not come. Wandering outside our hero was approached by a soldier who ordered him back, no sooner had he retraced his steps, he was again ordered by another swarthy soldier—exactly between two fires. How he finally got out, deponeth knoweth not, but it was not until the next day over across the Rio Grande, safe in the U. S. A., that Mr. Frankenheim learned that civil war was raging in Mexico and he was actually in "No Man's" land.

As if that wasn't excitement enough for one day some one swiped his New York City hat and left him another derby two sizes too big, but Mr. Frankenheim proved a game guy and arose to the occasion. At last accounts Mr. Frankenheim and the unwelcome derby were in Chicago.

Chairman James J. Coughlin, of the local N. A. D. committee, had the affair in charge and as usual put it over in fine style.

Daily the lot of the impostor grows harder all over the country, especially in Buffalo. The other day the press carried the story of a man, posing as a deaf-mute, selling handkerchiefs in the Brisbane building, one of the largest office buildings in this city. He explained on pad and paper that he was trying to raise money to attend school at "Oswego." Somebody found there was no school for the deaf in Oswego and somebody complained. And the pseudo deaf-mute was given six months at hard labor, to ponder over that this is a fast changing world and not so easily fooled any more.

Our sympathy goes to Mr. James Daly, of Angola, whose wife died on New Year's Day. She leaves two children.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Coughlin's son spent a two weeks' holiday in Quebec City, Canada, and reported the severest weather yet encountered, with huge drifts everywhere. Their daughter was home for the holidays from Cortland High School.

A new arrival in our midst is Ganno Palmateer, of Rochester, who has secured a position at Fisher Body Co. Fishers recently reopened after two months' shutdown, and indications point to steady work for some time.

In a recent letter from M. H. Gaudet, of the Institution Des Sourdes-Muets, Montreal, Can., to his former pupil, James J. Coughlin, congratulating him on his success in his conduct in shaping affairs of the coming N. A. D. convention, among other things said: "Best thanks for picture of Statue of De l'Epee and Christmas card, it is a proof you do not forget your old teacher. I suppose you know I will celebrate my golden jubilee as teacher of the deaf in 1930—the same year as the founding of the N. A. D. of the United States. It is a great coincidence for me." It will indeed be a fitting climax to a long and honored career, if Mr. Gaudet could come to the convention and be present at the unveiling of the statue to the Abbe De l'Epee.

Detroit has started something that other cities might do well to copy. What? Why, a Buffalo Savings Club. It is a time-honored and tried way of achieving an object.

February 15th, there was a card party at Elmwood Music Hall, given under the auspices of the Local Committee of the N. A. D. Handsome prizes will be given winners of games. Miss Josephine Mead was in charge of this affair.

On March 15th, a masquerade party under the same auspices will be given at the same place. Miss Eleanor Atwater, of Lockport, is chairman of this event.

Eddie Connors, Buffalo's renowned light heavyweight, is one of the sparring partners of Buffalo's candidate for the crown in this division—Jimmy Slattery. They are in training camp at Speculator, N. Y., Tunney's old quarters.

The secretary of the local N. A. D. committee earnestly advises all intending to come to the convention to write for hotel reservation, because rooms during convention week will be at a premium, as a couple of large fraternal associations are holding their convention in Buffalo the same week. And there's satisfaction in being prepared for any eventuality.

James J. Coughlin, chairman of the Local N. A. D. committee, may attend the Frat masquerade at Syracuse, February 22d, combining business and pleasure.

CHARLES N. SNYDER.

Beaten by Long Branch.

At Long Branch, N. J., on the night of February 12th, the Long Branch Big Five beat the Shore Silent Five in a tough game, by the score of 23 to 17, to gain a tie for first place with them in the city "Y" basketball league.

The Big Five held the lead, the majority of the playing time, but the deaf boys could not stop the hard-fighting winning team. In the last period, the deaf boys showed better passing and shooting before the whistle ended. Corrello, Silent forward, played a stellar floor game, doing some pretty dribbling. He did all the shooting, scoring three field goals.
